

PERSONAL INFORMATION ERRORS ON YOUR CREDIT REPORT

More than a Third of Volunteers in a January 2021 Consumer Reports Study Found Errors in Their Credit Reports

What other business would allow 10-20% error rate?

It is vital to know that you have updated and accurate Personal Information reporting to the Credit Bureaus.

It is also your lawful right to have accurate information reporting.

Generally when a financial institution checks your Credit (when making a lending decision), what they are typing is placed directly into your Credit Report exactly the way they typed it.

The person who took your information is human and often makes mistakes.

Those ERRORS could cause you to be denied CREDIT, as the information reporting with the Credit Bureaus may not match the information you provided.

On the flip side, negative accounts tied to old or inaccurate information such as an address could then be deleted as the address is no longer current and you no longer have access to that address.

*At least once a year, review your Credit Report for accurate Personal Information reporting. It is very important that everything reporting be accurate and up to date. The Credit Bureaus use this information to verify your identity, and if anything here is incorrect or outdated, your security may be compromised. If you would like help with this, call, email, or text for assistance. We are always happy to help you.
